

STORY STRUCTURE

PROLOGUE

Scene 1 — Computer Laboratory

Background

- Computer Laboratory

Characters

- Protagonist
- Professor (Background)
- Students (Background)

Time: Late Afternoon

Students are working.

Professor is discussing something, but the protagonist is clearly exhausted.

Scene Description

The Computer Laboratory buzzes with the sound of typing keyboards. The classroom feels unusually calm. Students are busy finishing their work while the professor gives final reminders before dismissal.

At the back of the room, the protagonist struggles to keep her eyes open. Dark circles rest beneath her eyes after another week of sleepless nights.

DIALOGUE

NOTE: Narrator = Gray Color

Professor:

"Your capstone proposal is due next week."

"Make sure your documentation is complete."

Students begin packing.

Everyone slowly leaves.

The protagonist stares at her monitor.

Protagonist (Thoughts)

"Just five more minutes..."

"I'll finish it..."

"If I stop now..."

"I'll just have even more work tomorrow."

Her vision slowly blurs.

Her eyelids become too heavy.

She rests her head.

The screen continues glowing.

The cursor...

Keeps blinking.

FADE TO BLACK

Scene 2 — Awakening

Background

- Computer Laboratory

Characters

- Protagonist
- Shadow (Entity A not fully seen)

Time: 12:04 AM

Scene Description

Silence.

The peaceful classroom from before now feels strangely lifeless.

The lights flicker occasionally, casting brief shadows across the empty room.

DIALOGUE

Silence.

A clock ticks.

The glow of a computer monitor slowly illuminates the room.

She slowly wakes up.

Protagonist

"...?"

"Hm...?"

She slowly lifts her head.

No conversations, No footsteps, Only silence.

She looks around.

Protagonist

"Everyone..."

"already left?"

She reaches for her phone.

The lock screen lights up.

12:04 AM

Protagonist

"Midnight...?"

"Wait....That's impossible."

She quickly stands up.

Protagonist

"Hello...?"

No answer.

A chill crawls down her spine.

Suddenly, an unknown shadow glimpsed, without her notice.

For the first time...

The campus doesn't feel familiar anymore.

She slowly reaches for the classroom door and walks outside.

The empty campus comes into view completely empty.

Not a single person nor a single light, Only darkness.

Title appears.

Scene 3 — Crossroads

Background

- Empty School Grounds (Outside Comlab)

Characters

- Protagonist
- Shadow (Entity A not fully seen)

Time: 12:06 AM

Scene Description

The protagonist steps outside the Computer Laboratory expecting to see the familiar campus she has walked through countless times.

Instead...

Everything feels wrong.

The buildings are exactly where they should be.

The pathways remain unchanged.

The trees sway gently in the wind.

Yet the campus feels abandoned.

Not a single classroom is lit.

Not a single voice can be heard.

It feels less like everyone left...

...and more like everyone was erased.

DIALOGUE

The cold night air brushes against her skin.

The silence is overwhelming.

Even the insects have stopped singing.

Protagonist

...

This... doesn't make any sense.

She slowly walks around the area

Her footsteps echo across the empty campus.

Each step sounds louder than the last.

Protagonist

Hello...?

Is anyone still here?

Only the wind answers.

She reaches into her pocket and checks her phone once more.

12:06 AM

No signal.

No notifications.

No internet connection.

Protagonist

Oh great...

Seriously...?

She lets out a nervous laugh.

It quickly fades.

For a brief moment...

She considers going back inside.

She turns around and quickly walks back toward the Computer Laboratory.

The lights inside are off.

She reaches for the door handle.

Click.

It doesn't budge.

Protagonist

Huh...?

She tries again.

Harder this time.

Click. Click.

Locked.

Protagonist

What...? No, no...

It was open just a second ago...

She rapidly knocks on the door.

Protagonist

Hello?!

Is anyone inside?!?

No answer.

Not even an echo.

Only the sound of the wind drifting through the empty campus.

She spins around.

Her breathing grows heavier.

There is only one way left to go.

PLAYER CHOOSES ON WHAT ROUTE TO GO: (Quadrangle, New Building, Court)

Meanwhile...

A shadowy entity watches her from behind

Going into the {Route}

GAMEPLAY LOOP

Every route follows:

Exploration

↓

Entity Encounter

↓

Exploration

↓

Memory Discovery

↓

Entity Dialogue

↓

Mini Game

↓

Climax

↓

Second Entity

↓

Final Chase

↓

Ending

QUADRANGLE ROUTE

Theme:

Academic Burnout

Exploration

Player clicks around.

Exam papers.

Coffee cups.

Broken pencil.

Library card.

Homework.

Every interaction gives a small internal monologue.

Example:

Coffee Cup

DIALOGUE

Protagonist

"Cold..."

"How long has this been here?"

Pile of Papers

"Submission..."

"Late."

Bench

"I used to eat lunch here."

Nothing scary yet.

Only uneasiness.

FIRST ENTITY

The screen darkens slightly.

A silhouette appears beneath a tree.

No face.

Only glowing eyes.

Burnout.

DIALOGUE

Burnout

"..."

No response.

Player walks closer.

Burnout

"You're still working."

Protagonist

"...Who are you?"

Burnout

"You haven't slept."

Protagonist

"I..."

Burnout

"It's okay."

"Just one more assignment."

Silence.

Burnout disappears.

Protagonist

"..."

MORE EXPLORATION

Player finds memories.

Notebook.

"This handwriting..."

"it's mine."

Sticky Notes.

"Deadlines..."

"So many..."

Laptop.

"Still on..."

"I forgot to close the tab."

Planner:

Each one unlocks dialogue.

Notebook

DIALOGUE

Protagonist

"This handwriting..."

"...it's mine."

Notebook Entry

Monday

Quiz

Project

Assignment

Study

Sleep later.

Burnout appears again.

Burnout

"You wrote that."

Protagonist

"..."

Burnout

"You always say"

"Sleep later."

MINI GAME

Push Through

Gameplay occurs.

After finishing—

Burnout

"See?"

"You can keep going."

Protagonist

(breathing)

"No..."

Burnout

"You're doing great."

"Everyone else is surviving."

"Why can't you?"

After [Dismiss the thoughts game]

Protagonist

"...I can breathe."

PERFORMANCE EVALUATION

(Depending on the player's Aura score from the minigame, one of the following lines is added)

[Excellent]

Protagonist

"I won't let this bury me."

[Good]

Protagonist

"I just need a little more time."

[Barely]

Protagonist

"...Just barely."

[Failed]

Protagonist

"I can't... I can't do this anymore."

CLIMAX

Wind grows stronger.

Static.

Screen glitches.

Burnout looks behind the protagonist.

Burnout

"...He's here."

Lights cut out.

REGRET APPEARS

Much taller.

Face hidden.

Voice echoes.

Regret

"You remember."

Protagonist

"...Who are you?"

Regret

"You already know."

Player shakes.

Regret

"You should've studied."

Flash.

Exam score:

52%

Regret

"Maybe then..."

Flash.

Missed deadline.

Regret

"Maybe then..."

Flash.

Friend leaving.

Regret

"Maybe then..."

Burnout

"She was tired."

Regret

"She was lazy."

Burnout

"She tried."

Regret

"Not enough."

Both begin speaking over each other.

Text boxes overlap.

The music distorts.

Burnout

"Keep working."

Regret

"Too late."

Burnout

"Keep going."

Regret

"You'll never catch up."

The screen completely glitches.

Silence. Everything stops. Footsteps. A monstrous shadow appears. No dialogue. Only breathing.

Despair appears.

CHASE GAMEPLAY

During the Chase

As the player runs, short whispers play occasionally.

Narrator

"The weight grows heavier."

Narrator

"There is no rest."

Narrator

"It will consume you."

If the Player Reaches the Exit (Good Path)

The protagonist stumbles toward the light. Her body aches with exhaustion.

Protagonist

"I'm tired... but I can't stop here."

She steps into the light.

Everything fades to white.

If Despair Catches the Player (Bad Path)

The shadows pull her down. She is too tired to stand.

Protagonist

"Just let me rest..."

The whispers merge into one voice.

Despair

"Sleep."

Everything goes black.

NEW BUILDING ROUTE

Theme: Fear of the Future

Core Emotion

This route isn't about failing.

It's about not knowing whether everything you've sacrificed will ever be worth it.

Regret anchors the protagonist to the past.

Lost forces her to stare into an uncertain future.

Scene 1 — Entering the New Building

Background

- New Building - Ground Floor (AVR)

Characters

- Protagonist
- (Regret is NOT physically present.)

Time: 12:12 AM

Scene Description

After leaving the Computer Laboratory, the protagonist finds herself standing before the New Building. Although she has attended countless classes here over the years, the building feels strangely unfamiliar.

The hallways are empty.

The classrooms are dark.

The silence is almost suffocating.

DIALOGUE

The automatic glass doors stand slightly open.

No security guard.

No janitor.

No voices.

Only silence.

The protagonist slowly steps inside.

The doors close behind her with a soft click.

She instinctively looks back.

The doors remain shut.

Protagonist

...

This place gives me the creeps.

She laughs softly.

A laugh meant only to calm herself.

Protagonist

Get it together...

You're seriously letting an empty hallway scare you?

She takes another step.

...

Another.

...

Another.

Rows of classrooms stretch along both sides.

Each door is identical.

Each window reflects only darkness.

The fluorescent lights flicker one by one.

Not randomly.

Almost...

In rhythm.

The protagonist glances toward the end of the hallway.

It feels farther away than it should.

She blinks.

The hallway returns to normal.

Protagonist

...

Weird.

She keeps walking.

SFX

Step...

...

Step...

...

Step...

Another footstep echoes.

One beat behind hers.

Step...

...

Step...

...

Step...

The protagonist immediately freezes.

Silence.

The second footsteps stop as well.

Protagonist

...

She slowly turns around.

Nothing.

Just empty hallways.

She sighs.

Protagonist

I really need more sleep.

She starts walking again.

The second footsteps return.

Always one step behind.

Never catching up.

Never falling behind.

Something follows her.

Patiently.

Quietly.

Waiting.

The hallway lights suddenly flicker.

For less than a second...

A dark silhouette appears at the very end of the corridor.

Standing perfectly still.

Watching.

The lights stabilize.

Nothing is there.

Protagonist

...

Hello?

Silence.

Only the buzzing lights respond.

Exploration Begins

Player gains control.

The player may inspect several objects before proceeding.

Investigation Object 1

—DIALOGUE—

Classroom Door

Locked.

Protagonist

Looks like everyone's already gone home...

She reaches for the small window.

The classroom is empty.

Every chair pushed in neatly.

Everything exactly where it should be.

Yet...

One chair slowly slides backward.

On its own.

She immediately steps away.

Protagonist

...

No.

I didn't see that.

Investigation Object 2

DIALOGUE

Bulletin Board

Old announcements.

Hackathon posters.

Club recruitment.

Internship opportunities.

Most have already expired.

Protagonist

...

I kept saying I'd join one someday.

► Player Choice

"Maybe next semester."

"I was too busy."

If player chooses:

"Maybe next semester."

Protagonist

Maybe next semester.

There was always another deadline first.

"I was too busy."

Protagonist

I was too busy.

...

At least that's what I kept telling myself.

As the protagonist walks away...

One poster quietly falls from the board.

Landing face-up.

It reads:

YOUR FUTURE STARTS HERE.

The lights flicker.

The word FUTURE appears briefly smudged.

Almost like someone scratched across it.

Investigation Object 3

-----DIALOGUE-----

Classroom Window

She looks outside.

She should be able to see the quadrangle.

Instead...

She sees another hallway.

Exactly like the one she's standing in.

She blinks.

The normal campus returns.

Protagonist

Nope.

Definitely sleep deprivation.

She walks away.

Transition

DIALOGUE

She reaches the end of the Ground Floor hallway.

The staircase leading upward comes into view.

Just as she places a foot on the first step—

A voice quietly speaks.

Not behind her.

Not in front of her.

Inside her thoughts.

???

Still running?

The protagonist freezes.

Protagonist

...

She looks around.

Nothing.

???

You always leave before finding the answer.

Protagonist

Who's there?

Silence.

The staircase lights flicker.

???

Keep climbing.

Maybe this time...

You'll like what you find.

The voice disappears.

The protagonist remains frozen for a moment.

► Player Choice

"Who's there? Show yourself!"

"...I'm leaving."

If player chooses "Who's there?"

Protagonist

Who's there? Stop hiding!

If someone's messing with me, this isn't funny!

Only silence answers.

If player chooses "...I'm leaving."

The protagonist lets out a shaky breath.

Without another word, she turns around.

Protagonist

No...

I'm done.

Whatever this is, I'm not staying here.

She briskly walks back the way she came.

Her footsteps grow quicker.

Almost a run.

The hallway seems unusually longer than before.

The lights continue flickering overhead.

One after another.

She keeps walking....and walking....and walking...

The exit never comes into view.

The protagonist slows to a stop.

She looks around.

Protagonist

What?

She turns back toward the hallway.

The staircase is still there.

Exactly where she had left it.

Only a few meters away.

As if she had never walked away at all.

Protagonist

That's...impossible.

She looks behind her once more.

Nothing but the endless corridor.

No entrance.

No way out.

Only rows of silent classrooms.

She takes a hesitant step backward.

The fluorescent lights buzz loudly above her.

For a brief moment...

Everything goes dark.

When the lights return...

She is standing at the foot of the staircase again.

A quiet voice whispers inside her mind.

Not threatening.

Almost amused.

???

Running away again?

Silence.

???

Some things...

always find their way back to you.

The voice fades.

The protagonist swallows hard.

Whether she moves forward...

Or tries to leave...

She always ends up in the same place.

The only path left...

Leads upward.

End of Scene 1

Scene 2 — The Second Floor

Background

- New Building - Staircase / Second Floor

Characters

- Protagonist

- ??? (Regret - Voice Only)

Time: 12:18 AM

Scene Description

Unable to leave, the protagonist reluctantly climbs to the second floor.

Unlike the first floor, the second floor feels colder.

The hallway is noticeably darker, and the air feels unusually heavy.

As she explores, familiar objects begin triggering memories she thought she had already forgotten.

For the first time...

A mysterious voice begins responding to those memories.

—DIALOGUE—

Narrator

The staircase groans beneath every step.

Each floor creaks as though the building itself is breathing.

The farther she climbs...

The quieter the world becomes.

The protagonist reaches the second floor.

The hallway is empty.

Not abandoned.

Empty.

As though no one had ever been there.

Protagonist

...

Why does it feel so cold up here?

She rubs her arms.

The air feels heavier than before.

Almost difficult to breathe.

The fluorescent lights buzz overhead.

One suddenly bursts.

POP!

Glass scatters across the floor.

The protagonist flinches.

Protagonist

Seriously?!

She exhales.

Trying to steady herself.

Narrator

The silence returns.

Almost immediately.

Exploration Begins

Investigation Object 1

—DIALOGUE—

Graduation Banner

A faded tarpaulin hangs from the ceiling.

It reads:

"Congratulations, Graduating Class!"

The smiling faces printed on it stare straight ahead.

Protagonist

Graduation...

She stares quietly.

I wonder...

if I'll ever make it there.

A voice answers.

Softly.

???

You asked yourself that before.

The protagonist freezes.

Protagonist

...

She slowly turns around.

No one.

???

You never answered.

Silence.

Protagonist

...

Who's there?

No response.

Investigation Object 2

-----DIALOGUE-----

Trophy Display

Inside a dusty display case are old awards.

Programming competitions.

Hackathons.

Research conferences.

One empty space remains.

A small nameplate beneath it reads:

"Reserved."

Protagonist

Reserved...?

She leans closer.

The engraved letters slowly change.

For a brief second...

They read her name.

She immediately blinks.

The name disappears.

Protagonist

...

No...

I couldn't have—

???

You thought it'd be yours.

The protagonist quickly steps away.

► Player Choice

How does she respond?

"I never said that."

"...Maybe."

If player chooses "I never said that."

Protagonist

I never expected anything like that.

???

Didn't you?

Silence.

If player chooses "...Maybe."

Protagonist

...Maybe.

???

Then what happened?

The hallway suddenly grows quieter.

Investigation Object 3

DIALOGUE

Classroom 204

The classroom door is slightly open.

Inside sits a single desk.

On it rests a notebook.

The protagonist slowly opens it.

Inside are handwritten notes.

Algorithms.

Flowcharts.

Database diagrams.

Entire pages crossed out.

The final page reads:

"Not good enough."

Over.

And over.

And over.

Protagonist

...

That's...

The handwriting is unmistakable.

It's hers.

???

You wrote that.

The protagonist immediately shuts the notebook.

Protagonist

Stop...

Silence.

Then...

???

Why?

Because it's true?

The lights flicker violently.

The protagonist stumbles backward.

Protagonist

Enough!

Her own voice echoes throughout the hallway.

No reply follows.

Only silence.

Transition

DIALOGUE

The player continues exploring.

As the final clue is collected...

A distorted school bell rings.

SFX

Ding...

...

Ding...

...

Ding...

The sound doesn't stop.

It stretches unnaturally.

Almost like it's slowing down.

The lights dim.

The hallway begins changing.

The classroom doors slowly disappear into darkness.

Their walls distort.

Stretching farther apart.

At the end of the corridor...

Eight identical doors gradually emerge.

Each with the same brass handle.

Each perfectly identical.

The protagonist slowly steps back.

Protagonist

...

Those...

weren't here before.

The mysterious voice speaks once more.

This time...

Clearer than ever.

???

Every choice...

leaves a door behind.

A pause.

Some you opened.

Another pause.

Some you were too afraid to.

The lights go out.

Complete darkness.

When they return...

The hallway behind her is gone.

Only the eight doors remain.

There is no turning back.

Only memories waiting to be opened.

END OF SCENE 2

Scene 3 — Hallway of Doors (Mini Task)

Background

- New Building - Second Floor – Endless Hallway

Characters

- Protagonist
- ??? (Regret - Voice Only)

Time: Unknown

Scene Description

The second-floor hallway twists into something impossible.

The familiar classrooms vanish.

In their place stands an endless corridor lined with eight identical wooden doors.

Each door contains a memory.

Each memory asks a question.

The protagonist cannot continue unless she chooses whether to face them.

-----DIALOGUE-----

Narrator

The hallway no longer resembles the New Building.

The ceiling stretches into darkness.

The walls seem farther apart than before.

Only eight doors remain.

Perfectly aligned.

Perfectly still.

Each door bears no classroom number.

Only a tarnished brass handle.

The protagonist slowly approaches the first one.

Protagonist

...

What is this place...?

Silence.

A familiar voice answers.

Calm.

Almost comforting.

???

You've walked these halls before.

The protagonist stiffens.

Protagonist

You again.

???

No.

You've always been talking to me.

A long pause.

???

You just never noticed.

The protagonist clenches her fists.

Protagonist

Who are you?

The voice chuckles softly.

Not mockingly.

Sadly.

???

A better question... is who you've become.

The hallway grows quieter.

The first door slowly unlocks by itself.

Click.

The handle turns.

???

Every door hides something you've buried.

You have two choices.

Open it...

Or keep pretending it never happened.

Tutorial (Narrator)

The hallway responds to the protagonist's emotions.

Each door represents a memory.

Some memories bring pain.

Others remind her why she kept moving forward.

The choices she makes will affect her Certainty.

There is no correct answer.

Only honest ones.

Gameplay Begins

Hallway of Doors

(Player begins interacting with the eight doors.)

During Gameplay

Between doors, Regret occasionally speaks.

These lines are random and don't interrupt gameplay.

DIALOGUE

Regret

Funny...

You remember every mistake.

But never your victories.

You keep asking...

"What if?"

As if the answer would change anything.

Some doors were never locked.

You simply stopped reaching for the handle.

Running from a memory...

Doesn't erase it.

Memory Examples

Regret Door

The player opens the door.

A memory appears.

Student Council Interview.

Interviewer

Thank you for applying.

We'll contact you soon.

The memory changes.

Narrator

Weeks later...

No email ever came.

The memory fades.

Protagonist

...

The Certainty Bar decreases.

Lost Door

A classroom.

The protagonist sits alone.

Her laptop is open.

Protagonist (Past)

...

Do I even enjoy this anymore?

The memory freezes.

Present-day protagonist watches silently.

Regret

You never answered yourself.

Certainty decreases.

Spark Door

A programming laboratory.

Groupmates cheer.

Friend

We actually did it!

The protagonist smiles.

A genuine smile.

Past Protagonist

I thought we were going to fail...

Everyone laughs.

The memory slowly fades.

Regret

...

You forgot this one.

Certainty increases.

If Player Spam Clicks

The memory suddenly cracks like broken glass.

Narrator

She desperately tries to look away.

To make it end sooner.

The memory shatters.

Leaving only fragments behind.

Regret

See?

Even now...

You refuse to face it.

Avoidance Penalty applied.

Final Door

The eighth door is different.

Its wood is darker.

Its handle colder.

The protagonist hesitates.

► Player Choice

Open the door.

Walk away.

If the player chooses Walk Away, the protagonist turns around...

Only to find...

The hallway behind her has disappeared.

Nothing but darkness.

Narrator

Some questions...

Demand an answer.

The player is returned to the choice.

Choosing Open the Door continues.

She slowly reaches for the handle.

Her hand trembles.

Protagonist

...

Whatever's inside...

I'm done running.

The door opens.

Instead of another memory...

There is only darkness.

The lights suddenly go out.

Every door slams shut.

BANG!

BANG!

BANG!

One after another.

The hallway shakes violently.

The voice returns.

Closer than ever.

???

Good.

Now...

Look at me.

For the first time...

The protagonist hears footsteps approaching.

Not behind her.

Not ahead of her.

Everywhere.

A shadow slowly forms at the end of the corridor.

Its shape is human.

Its face hidden.

It doesn't move.

It simply stands there.

Watching.

Protagonist

...

You're...

The figure takes one step forward.

???

I've always been here.

The lights burst.

Darkness.

Performance-Based Dialogue

(Played immediately after the minigame depending on the player's Certainty.)

Excellent (60–80%)

Protagonist

...

I can't change those memories.

But...

I don't have to keep living inside them.

Regret

...

Then perhaps...

you've finally learned something.

Good (40–59%)

Protagonist

I still have doubts...

But I can keep moving.

Regret

Even if you don't know where you're going?

Protagonist

...

Even then.

Barely Made It (1–39%)

Protagonist

...

Why is it so hard...

to forgive myself?

Regret

Because you've spent so long convincing yourself...

that you don't deserve to.

Failed (0%)

The Certainty Bar shatters.

The hallway cracks apart.

The protagonist collapses to her knees.

Protagonist

Please...

Make it stop...

The voice speaks one final time.

???

I never started this.

You did.

Everything goes black.

Transition to Scene 4

When the darkness fades...

The protagonist finds herself standing in front of a pair of large wooden doors.

Above them hangs a faded sign.

LIBRARY

The doors slowly creak open on their own.

A faint light spills out from within.

For the first time since entering the New Building...

She knows exactly where she's being led.

And for the first time...

She isn't alone anymore.

End of Scene 3

Scene 4 — The Library

Background

- New Building - Third Floor Library

Characters

- Protagonist
- Regret (Physical Form)
- Lost (Physical Form)

Time: Unknown

Scene Description

Beyond the library doors lies a room unlike the one the protagonist remembers.

The bookshelves stretch impossibly high, disappearing into darkness.

Rows of tables sit untouched.

Books are scattered across the floor as if someone searched desperately for an answer but never found one.

Only one lamp remains lit.

Beneath it...

Someone is waiting.

—DIALOGUE—

Narrator

The library is silent.

Not the comforting silence of studying.

Not the peaceful silence of reading.

A silence that feels...

Wrong.

Heavy.

As though every word spoken here had been swallowed.

The protagonist steps forward.

Her footsteps are muffled by the carpet.

The deeper she walks...

The darker the room becomes.

At the center of the library...

A lone figure sits at a study table.

Head lowered.

Hands resting calmly on an open book.

It does not move.

Protagonist

...

Hello?

No response.

She slowly takes another step.

The figure closes the book.

Without making a sound.

It stands.

Its face remains hidden beneath shadow.

Only its eyes are visible.

Watching her.

Protagonist

...

You're the one...

who's been following me.

The figure tilts its head.

???

Following?

No.

I've always been here.

You simply refused to look.

Silence fills the room.

The protagonist clenches her fists.

Protagonist

Who...are you?

The figure slowly takes a step forward.

Regret

I am every answer...

you wish you could change.

The room suddenly grows colder.

The overhead lamp flickers.

Regret

Every mistake replayed...before you fall asleep.

Another step.

Regret

Every opportunity...

you convinced yourself wasn't worth taking.

The protagonist slowly backs away.

Protagonist

Stop...

Regret

Why?

Haven't you spent years listening to me?

The room falls silent.

Then...

A second voice.

Soft.

Almost tired.

???

That's enough.

The protagonist quickly turns.

Another figure stands between two bookshelves.

Unlike the first...

Its posture is slouched.

Its eyes seem empty.

Not angry.

Simply...Lost.

Protagonist

...There's another one?

The second figure slowly walks forward.

Its footsteps make no sound.

Lost

She already knows.

It looks toward Regret.

Lost

You don't have to keep reminding her.

Regret doesn't look away from the protagonist.

Regret

If she forgets...

she'll make the same mistakes again.

Lost quietly shakes its head.

Lost

She's forgotten something far more important.

It finally looks at the protagonist.

Lost

Tell me.

What do you want...

after graduation?

The protagonist opens her mouth.

Nothing comes out.

► Player Choice

"I want a stable job."

"I... don't know."

"I haven't thought that far."

If the player chooses "I want a stable job."

Lost

A stable job.

It nods slowly.

Then what?

Silence.

If the player chooses "I... don't know."

Lost

...

Thank you.

The protagonist looks confused.

Protagonist

For what?

Lost

For answering honestly.

If the player chooses "I haven't thought that far."

Lost

...

That's what frightens you most.

Isn't it?

The protagonist lowers her head.

Protagonist

...

Lost slowly walks closer.

Not threatening.

Almost sympathetic.

Lost

You've spent years surviving.

Assignment after assignment.

Exam after exam.

Deadline after deadline.

But survival...isn't the same as living.

The protagonist's eyes begin to water.

Protagonist

I...

I just wanted...to graduate.

Regret suddenly interrupts.

Its voice is louder now.

Sharper.

Regret

And what happens if you don't?

The lights violently flicker.

Books begin falling from the shelves.

One after another.

Regret

What if you fail?

Another shelf collapses.

Regret

What if nobody hires you?

The room shakes.

Regret

What if everyone else moves forward...

A pause.

...without you?

The protagonist covers her ears.

Protagonist

Stop!

Regret

Those aren't my questions.

It points directly at her.

They're yours.

Silence.

Lost looks down.

Almost saddened.

Lost

...

You've been carrying these thoughts...for so long...

You don't even know which ones belong to you anymore.

The library falls silent.

No footsteps.

No wind.

Not even the buzzing of the fluorescent lights.

Only silence.

An uncomfortable...

Absolute silence.

The protagonist slowly lowers her hands.

Protagonist

...

What...

what's happening?

Regret's gaze shifts past her.

Not toward something.

Toward everything.

For the first time...

Its voice falters.

Regret

...

We've stayed too long.

Lost quietly looks toward the darkness spreading between the bookshelves.

The shadows no longer belong to the room.

They move on their own.

Crawling across the floor.

Climbing the shelves.

Swallowing every source of light.

Lost

It's beginning.

The library trembles.

Books fall from the shelves without touching the ground.

Instead...

They dissolve into black ash.

Their pages scatter through the air like dying memories.

The darkness slowly gathers at the center of the library.

Not taking the shape of a person.

Not taking the shape of a monster.

Only countless shadows twisting together.

Whispers begin filling the room.

At first...

Only one voice.

"You weren't good enough..."

Then another.

"You don't know where you're going..."

Another.

"Keep working..."

Another.

"Remember everything you gave up..."

The voices overlap.

Again.

And again.

And again.

Until they become impossible to distinguish.

The protagonist covers her ears.

Protagonist

Stop...

Please...

The whispers only grow louder.

Until...

One enormous silhouette slowly rises from the sea of shadows.

Its body constantly shifts.

Faces emerge...

Only to disappear.

Hands reach outward...

Before melting back into darkness.

Its form never remains the same.

As though countless emotions are fighting to become whole.

Regret quietly lowers its head.

Regret

Every doubt.

Lost follows.

Lost

Every fear.

Their voices overlap.

For the first time...

Speaking together.

Regret & Lost

Every burden you refused to face...

A long silence.

The shifting mass lets out a deep, hollow groan.

Not like an animal.

Not like a person.

But like hundreds of voices crying out at once.

Regret

When every wound speaks at once...

Lost

...it becomes something else.

The protagonist stares at the towering mass before her.

Barely able to breathe.

Protagonist

...

What... is that...?

Regret looks at her one last time.

Its expression unreadable.

Regret

The end of every road we lead to.

Lost finishes the sentence.

Lost

Despair.

The creature slowly leans forward.

It has no eyes.

No mouth.

Yet the darkness surrounding it reaches toward the protagonist like countless grasping hands.

Not to kill her.

Not to tear her apart.

To consume her.

To make her another voice inside itself.

Narrator

It is not a monster.

It is every fear...

Every regret...

Every sacrifice...

Every uncertainty...

That has grown louder than the person carrying them.

And if it reaches her...

There will be nothing left of her own voice.

A blinding light suddenly pierces through the library windows.

Far in the distance...

Beyond the collapsing shelves...

The campus entrance glows.

A single path remains open.

The only way out.

End of Scene 4

Scene 5 — Final Chase

Background

- New Building → Hallways → Staircase → Campus Grounds

Characters

- Protagonist
- Despair
- Regret (voice)
- Lost (voice)
- (Optional: Burnout & Deprivation as whispers if you want to foreshadow the other routes.)

Time: Unknown

-DIALOGUE-

Narrator

The library collapses behind her.

The light is still there.

Far away.

Waiting.

Protagonist

Run...

Despair lets out a deafening roar.

The chase begins.

(Transition to Gameplay.)

During the Chase

As the player runs, short whispers play occasionally.

Regret

You can't outrun your past.

Lost

Where are you going?

(Optional whispers from the other entities):

Burnout

Keep running.

Deprivation

What did it all cost?

Narrator

The light grows closer.

Despair follows.

It never slows down.

If the Player Reaches the Exit (Good Path)

The protagonist stumbles toward the light.

She reaches out.

Protagonist

I...

I'm not done yet.

She steps into the light.

Everything fades to white.

If Despair Catches the Player (Bad Path)

Dark hands wrap around the protagonist.

She struggles.

Protagonist

No...

The whispers become one voice.

Despair

Stay.

Everything goes black.

Transition

Good Ending

Background

- Computer Laboratory

Characters

- Protagonist
- Professor
- Classmates

Time: 8:03 AM

Scene Description

A bright white light fills the screen.

The sound of hurried footsteps fades away.

The silence is replaced by the chatter of students.

A familiar voice breaks through.

DIALOGUE

Professor

Are you with us?

The protagonist suddenly opens her eyes.

She's back in the Computer Laboratory.

Sunlight streams through the windows.

Her classmates are quietly working on their computers.

Protagonist

...

She looks around.

Everything is normal.

The professor smiles.

Professor

Long night?

The class chuckles softly.

Embarrassed, the protagonist rubs her eyes.

Protagonist

Sorry, sir...

She glances at her notebook.

For a moment...

She notices a small handwritten note.

"One step at a time."

She doesn't remember writing it.

But somehow...

It feels familiar.

She smiles.

A genuine smile.

Narrator

The future is still uncertain.

The deadlines haven't disappeared.

The mistakes of yesterday still exist.

But for the first time...

She no longer believes they define her.

Epilogue (Optional)

Background

- Graduation

Several months later.

-----DIALOGUE-----

The protagonist stands among hundreds of graduating students.

She adjusts her graduation cap.

Looking around.

Her friends wave from nearby.

She laughs.

As her name is called...

She walks across the stage.

The audience applauds.

She accepts her diploma.

The camera lingers for a moment.

She looks toward the bright sky.

Protagonist

...

I made it.

Fade to white.

Text

Some scars never disappear.

But they don't have to decide where your story ends.

THE END

Bad Ending

Background

- New Building

Characters

- Protagonist

- Entities
- Despair

Time: Unknown

—DIALOGUE—

Darkness.

Silence.

The protagonist struggles to move.

Invisible hands pull her backward.

Protagonist

No...

Please...

The light grows smaller.

Smaller.

Until it disappears.

The whispers return.

Not one.

Not two.

Hundreds.

Burnout

Keep going.

Regret

Not enough.

Lost

Where will you run now?

Deprivation

You forgot yourself.

The voices slowly become one.

Despair

Stay with us.

The protagonist reaches toward the fading light.

Her hand disappears into darkness.

Black.

Silence.

Epilogue (Recommended)

Background

- Campus Entrance

Morning.

Students walk to class.

The campus is lively.

Everything feels ordinary.

A student stops near an electric pole.

Freshly taped to it...

A missing person poster.

MISSING STUDENT

(Protagonist's Name)

Last seen on campus.

Several students gather.

Student 1

Isn't she from the IT department?

Student 2

Yeah...

I heard she never went home.

Student 3

They searched the whole campus.

A pause.

They never found her.

The camera lingers on the poster.

The wind blows.

It begins to tear.

For a brief second...

The protagonist's photograph changes.

Her eyes are completely black.

Blink.

Everything returns to normal.

The poster continues fluttering in the wind.

Narrator

Some people disappear without leaving a trace.

Not because no one looked for them.

But because, somewhere along the way...

They lost themselves.

Fade to black.

Text

When your fears become your only voice...

Even the brightest path can disappear.

THE END

COURT ROUTE

Theme:

Losing Yourself

Player discovers:

Basketball

Club posters

Music performances

Photos

Certificates

Lost

"Remember these?"

Protagonist

"..."

Lost

"You quit."

Later—

Deprivation appears.

Unlike others—

Very calm.

Soft voice.

Deprivation

"You used to draw."

(Or another hobby that fits your protagonist.)

Protagonist

"...I was busy."

Deprivation

"Busy."

Silence.

Deprivation

"Years."

Another memory.

Deprivation

"When was the last time..."

"...you did something because it made you happy?"

Player says nothing.

Deprivation

"...I thought so."

During the climax:

Lost

"She doesn't know who she is."

Deprivation

"Because she forgot."

Lost

"She chased success."

Deprivation

"...and left herself behind."

FINAL BOSS CONCEPT

Rather than having the final boss speak, make it a manifestation of all the emotional burdens the protagonist has been carrying. Its silence makes it more unsettling because the previous entities have already voiced every fear, doubt, and regret. The player instinctively understands what it represents without being told.

This structure gives each route a distinct emotional focus while maintaining a consistent gameplay loop. Burnout embodies relentless pressure, Regret anchors the past, Lost questions identity and the future, and Deprivation mourns what has been sacrificed. By the time the final chase begins, the horror feels personal rather than random, making the transition to the semi-3D sequence feel like the emotional climax instead of just an action set piece.

FINAL BOSS

Silence.

Everything stops.

Footsteps.

A monstrous shadow appears.

No dialogue.

Only breathing.

Transition:

3D Chase

GOOD ENDING

After escaping—

Morning sunlight.

Quadrangle.

Students everywhere.

Protagonist

"...It was just a dream."

She notices her planner.

Instead of Sleep Later

She writes

Rest First.

Smile.

Fade.

BAD ENDING

Fails chase.

Darkness.

Burnout

"Don't stop."

Regret

"You never did enough."

Final Boss slowly reaches forward.

Black screen.

Alarm rings.

She wakes up...

Back in the computer laboratory.

Exactly where she started.

Phone:

12:04 AM

Loop implied.
